Dear Cousins,

Mother/June is in the hospital after an unsuccessful attempt to replace one of the hip replacements installed about 10 years ago. Those of you who know her can appreciate how frustrating it will be for her to be confined to a wheelchair. She is undergoing physical therapy to strengthen her upper body and will remain for a while at Spring Branch Medical Center, 8810 Long Point Road, Houston, TX 77055, phone 713-467-6555. I'm sure she'd appreciate any notes and prayers you send her way.

I've been having a long spell of heart problems, which resulted last week in my having what they call an ablation, cauterizing the portions causing atrial fibrillation (irregular heartbeat). Recovery has been up and down, so I'm trying to take advantage of the 'ups' for this.

Between hospital visits, I've been busy at work with earthquake- and inspection-related training, building code development, etc. I was recently honored with what has to be one of the most hoity-toity-sounding awards around, the 'Earthquake Engineering Research Institute Award for Innovation and Exemplary Practice in Earthquake Reduction'.

Pam has been increasingly successful selling bathroom and kitchen remodels and husband Mike has re-established his own construction company. They are always on the run, what with work and trying to keep up with the 3 boys still living at home.

Damon keeps busy with his window washing business and has recently passed his real estate exam. Their son Devin just turned 13 and is learning to play guitar. Bryan continues to work part-time with Damon and his own handyman business, spending most of his free time on his music, including guitar advice to his nephew.

Angela is currently a stay-at-home mom for 1-yr-old Sonja, now walking, jabbering, and causing eternal delight. David is also very involved in Sonja's care when he's not at work as an assistant buyer for a group of 160 grocery outlet stores.

The Klingstedts stay active, with Wayne 'retired' to continue his many home/garden projects, and Rob working part-time and improving her golf game. Jason works as web developer at a global publishing corporation. Jennifer works as a chiropractic assistant and bartender, and has completed 1/3 of her schooling to become a licensed chiropractor.

Wishing all of you good health and happiness!
